“ Our partnership with Kellogg continues to stand the test of time offering top-notch executive education that responds to the evolving needs of our society. KH EMBA’s long-lasting triumphs are exemplified by the global influence of its diverse and international network, and its commitment to creating a meaningful impact in both local and global communities. ”

Prof. TAM Kar Yan

Dean of HKUST Business School

“ KH EMBA represents a distinctive 26-year partnership that brings together outstanding faculty from the best business schools in the world to deliver an unparalleled global business education, and I am so pleased to see its continued recognition as the top global EMBA program by the Financial Times. Thanks to our wonderful partnership with HKUST and Dean Tam, we will continue to strengthen what Kellogg and HKUST excel at: providing students with the skills necessary to lead, collaborate and drive impact in today’s complex and rapidly evolving global business landscape. ”

Prof. Francesca CORNELLI

Dean of Kellogg School of Management

“ The top-ranked programme is run by Kellogg and the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology Business School. It scored highest for salaries reported by alumni three years after completing their degree, at $652,326 following adjustment for international purchasing power parity.....The ranking gives the highest weights to alumni salary and salary increase, but also includes relative performance on a range of other factors. These include: gender and international diversity of students and faculty; academic research; and carbon emissions in the schools’ operations. ”
